Saigon Terror Bombs Fatal To 40 or 50

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Two big terrorist explosions ripped through a crowded floating restaurant on the Saigon River almost simultaneously tonight and witnesses said they believed 40 or 50 persons, including many Americans, were killed.

The first police count showed 17 dead and 24 wounded. Officials expected this tally to go higher. Decks of the restaurant, the My Canh, and pavement on the riverside were slick with blood.

This incident is possibly the worst in terms of lives lost in South Viet Nam's capital in many years.

The riverfront normally is thronged with strollers seeking cool breezes in evening. Mothers and their children were among the casualties.

The explosions cut into the floating restaurant about 8:15 p.m.—7:15 a.m. EST.

One was caused by a powerful shaped charge—possibly an American-made Claymore electric mine—planted in the bank of the river. The Claymore exploded in the direction it is pointed.

The restaurant, which is moored about 25 feet from the bank, has an entry over a gangplank leading from the waterfront street. It is patronized mostly by Americans and wealthy Vietnamese.

Viet Reds Execute American GI

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong has executed U.S. Army Sgt. Harold George Bennett in reprisal for the execution of several Viet terrorists by the South Vietnamese government, Hanoi Radio announced today. It warned that other Americans might suffer the same fate.

"This is obviously a wanton act of murder if this is confirmed," the U.S. Embassy said after hearing the report of Bennett's execution.

Bennett, son of Pauline H. Bennett of Perryville, Ark., was captured Dec. 29 during the battle of Binh Gia, which cost an estimated 200 South Vietnamese lives.

Bennett was taken when the 33rd Ranger Battalion, to which he was attached as radio operator with the American advisory team, was attempting to retake Binh Gia from the Viet Cong.

The Hanoi broadcast said the commander of Viet Cong forces in South Viet Nam announced Bennett's execution Thursday.

Hanoi did not say where the execution took place.

It quoted the Viet Cong as saying: "The punishment of Harold George Bennett, an American aggressor who had committed many crimes against the South Vietnamese people, serves to warn the U.S. aggressors and their henchmen who have committed acts of utmost barbarity in killing prisoners of war that the murderers must pay for their blood debts."

The broadcast said Bennett was executed in reprisal for the deaths of Viet Cong "patriots" Nguyen Van Troi, De Dau, Tran Van Dang and others.

Tran Van Dang, 25, died before a firing squad in Saigon

Tuesday for trying to blow up an American bullet in a Saigon suburb in March.

Nguyen Van Troi, 19, was shot last October for trying to plant a bomb under a bridge over which U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara was scheduled to pass.

Le Van Khuyen, 20, was shot in January for carrying explosives near the Buddhist national headquarters.

Le Dau, 24, was executed in April for carrying a radio filled with plastic explosive into a hotel in Da Nang patronized mostly by U.S. military personnel.

72 Marines Aboard Due For Asia Duty

EL TORO, Calif. (AP) — A Military Air Transport Service jet transport carrying Marines bound for Okinawa crashed and exploded after takeoff today. All 84 aboard were killed.

A report from an observer who flew over the scene in rolling hills 4½ miles north of here said the four-engine C135 jet cut a 100-yard swath as it skidded up a slope, exploded and burned.

The plane took off for Honolulu at 1:44 a.m. in low clouds and a drizzle and almost immediately disappeared from the radar screen at this Marine air base 40 miles southeast of Los Angeles. There was no indication what went wrong aboard the big plane.

It came down at the 600-foot level in foothills of the Santa Ana Mountains, which order the field.

The 72 Marines aboard were mostly enlisted men from bases around the country, heading for the Far East as replacements in various units there. The plane, a military version of Boeing's 707 airliner, and its crew of 12 were from the 18th Air Transport Squadron at McGuire Air Force Base, N.J.

El Toro is 40 miles southeast of Los Angeles, just inland from the sea. The plane took off to the north. Planes doing so normally then bank left, away from the low-lying Santa Ana Mountains that border the field area. The wreckage was found in the hills almost due north of the strip.

The area is sparsely populated brushland. Because it is isolated, with few roads, search and rescue parties went to the scene in helicopters.

At Camp Pendleton, a spokesman said the Marines on the plane were part of a staging battalion that processes individual Marines from throughout the country for shipment to various overseas units.

They had been processed through Pendleton within the last two or three weeks and were brought to El Toro by bus Thursday.

Fourteen - hundred others in the staging battalion at Pendleton were ordered to wire or telephone their next of kin, to assure them of their safety.

The spokesman said it probably would take all day and perhaps part of tonight to notify next of kin of the victims.

$522,000 Auto Deal Is Shelved

WASHINGTON (AP) — At President Johnson's request, a provision of $522,000 to buy two special limousines for his use has been stricken from an appropriation bill.

The action was taken Thursday by Senate and House conferees working on the annual Treasury-Post Office appropriations bill.

The limousines, with bullet-proof glass and other special protections, were requested by the Secret Service, which has the job of guarding the President's life.

When the plans for the special cars came to light several months ago, Johnson said he didn't want them.

Senate Panel Approves New Cabinet Position

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's bill to create a new Cabinet Department of Housing and Urban Development has been approved by a Senate Government Operations subcommittee.

It now is referred to the full committee for action. The House already has passed similar legislation.

Customs Collections Headed for New High

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Customs Bureau estimates collections will reach a new high of more than $2 billion in the fiscal year which ends next Wednesday.

Acting Commissioner Lester D. Johnson said Thursday the total will be about $2,050,000,000, up 13 per cent over last year's total of $1,813,000,000.

Senate Gives Its Approval To Silverless U.S. Coins

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a bill which would eliminate silver from dimes and quarters and cut the silver content of half dollars.

Passage came late Thursday on a 74-9 vote. The bill was sent to the House, where a similar measure may come up for debate next week.

Under the Senate bill, the 90 per cent silver content of the half dollar would be reduced to 40 per cent, as requested by President Johnson. The House bill, which also would remove the silver from dimes and quarters as asked by Johnson, includes an amendment which would eliminate all of the silver from half dollars.

The President had called for the reduction of silver in coins on June 3. In a special message to Congress, he urged quick action in view of the rapidly diminishing Treasury stock of silver. He also expressed concern that a prolonged debate might encourage hoarding of coins.

Western senators made six unsuccessful efforts to revise the bill more to their liking. But their key proposal, to keep 40 per cent silver in the dime and quarter as well as the half dollar, was rejected 57 to 34.

On the other side of the argument, Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., from a silver-using state, sought to eliminate silver from the 50 cent piece, too. This was beaten 60 to 32.

Mining-state senators argued that the effect of the administration bill was to debase the nation's coinage system. They said the only real solution to the problem was a drastic price increase for silver to entice more domestic mines back into production.

Sponsors of the measure said that it was a reasonable compromise which would provide satisfactory coins for as far ahead as can now be foreseen.

They insisted it protected the interests of producers by establishing a $1.25-an-ounce floor price, as well as meeting the needs of industrial users of silver, vending machine operators and the public generally.

The new dimes and quarters are not expected to come into use until next year. With a copper core and coated with an alloy of nickel and copper, they will resemble a nickel in surface appearance but will be unchanged in size. Present vending machines will accept these, the Treasury says.

U.S. To Demand Maximum Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Public Works Committee has voted unanimously to deny federal highway money to any state that doesn't establish a maximum highway safety program by Dec. 31, 1967.

Rep. John S. Baldwin, R-Calif., offered the proposal as an amendment to a bill that deals with cost estimates for future interstate highways.

Under the state highway safety programs would have to conform to uniform standards approved by the secretary of commerce.

Top Dems Chuckle as Republicans Squabble about Ransacked Desk

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the nation's two top Democrats chortled, Republicans escalated their intramural squabble today in the case of the ransacked desk.

Ousted GOP aide William Cody Kelly said party chairman Ray C. Bliss first praised him, then announced he had fired him for an evening foray into the office of the party finance director.

Kelly said working at Republican headquarters is more dangerous than fighting a war.

Frank J. Kovac, the finance man, said Wednesday that Kelly and three other party aides broke open his locked desk in the interoffice raid a week ago.

Bliss said he demanded and got Kelly's resignation because "he has taken action which is contrary to standards which I have established for my staff."

Kelly wired a different version to members of the Republican National committee. President Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey needed the Republicans about the whole thing.

"I checked out my desk tonight before I left," Johnson told a party fund-raising dinner Thursday night, "and I'm sure it's locked and no one is going to get into it."

"Kelly is the fellow that used the hairpin to get into the vault," said Humphrey. "I hate to say it, but a man with that name ought to be a Democrat."

The vice president said Kelly might have been a Democratic agent, looking for lists of Republican donors.

"I've heard of crime in the streets," he added, "but I never heard of rifling desks in the suites."

Kelly said in his telegram he broke into the desk because he suspected Kovac of spying for Barry Goldwater, who ran against President Johnson last fall.

He said it was part of a "systematic search" of the whole party headquarters.

Kovac said it was "an interesting coincidence" that the search came only a day after Goldwater announced formation of his new Free Society Association, an organization Bliss has said will hurt the drive for party funds and unity.

Kovac, a Goldwater money raiser during the prenomination campaign, submitted his resignation as party finance director a month ago. It is effective next Thursday.

Kelly said the search party found a missing list of $1,000 party contributors and some Goldwater campaign films that had vanished. The former chief administrative assistant at GOP headquarters said he promptly reported to Bliss.

He professed satisfaction with my work and the locating of the list and of the film copies," said Kelly.

Furthermore, Kelly denied he was fired.

"When the adverse publicity started to flow," he said, "the chairman weakened in his support of me and it was apparent that I was to be sacrificed."

"I submitted my resignation," he said. "A few minutes later, the chairman issued a statement saying in effect that I had been fired."

Kelly, back home in Cincinnati, added this parting shot: "I must confess that my short stay in politics in Washington has proven that a position with the Republican National Committee is more dangerous than that encountered in my time as a liaison pilot in World War II, and as much as I regret the entire situation, I am happy to be out of it."

Bliss was not available for comment on Kelly's statement.

Food Truck Strike Wanes

Drivers Heeding Job Loss Threat

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The five-day wildcat strike of Teamster drivers began breaking up today as chain store food trucks, driven by Local 107 members threatened with loss of their jobs, delivered tons of fresh fruit, vegetables, fish and meat.

In the first hours after dawn more than 100 trucks of Food Fair, Acme, A. P. and Penn Fruit left warehouses for supply - exhausted stores in the Greater Philadelphia area.

The drivers of Local 107, which had called the unauthorized "holiday" Monday in defiance of national Teamster leaders, reported for work after receiving warning telegrams from their chain store employers that they will be "considered to have quit" if they didn't come in this morning.

Emissaries of Teamster President James R. Hoffa circulated among the strikers trying to persuade them to go back to work. Hoffa reportedly dispatched 50 business agents from locals in other cities. He has condemned the walkout.

A manufacturing official estimated daily production losses at between $3 million and $4 million, with approximately 10,000 persons laid off at firms whose lines of supply and distribution had dwindled to nearly nothing. The Greater Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce estimated the figure will reach 100,000 by next week if the strike continues.

The strike by the 12,000-member Teamsters Local 107 affected an area from the New Jersey eastern shore, as far south as Wilmington, Del., west to Lancaster and north to Reading, Pa.

The walkout began Monday in support of four Teamsters' members fired by Roadway Express Inc. for refusing to perform work they considered hazardous. Roadway drivers have been on strike since June 11.

Dems Lavish Praise on Their Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — With President Johnson in the starring role, Democrats lavished praise and money on their one-sided majorities in the House and Senate.

"This 89th Congress will leap into history as the most effective and the most rewarding Congress in the history of our nation," Johnson told some 2,500 Democrats crowded into a hotel ballroom Thursday night.

Then he moved on to the Washington Armory, where well over 6,000 diners were jammed in — at $100 a plate — to eat charcoal-broiled heart of filet mignon and hear some political talk.

They heard plenty, from Johnson, from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and from Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey.

And they paid plenty. Bailey told reporters the dinner netted some $650,000 for Democratic congressional campaign war chests.

"I come here tonight not to bury the Congress, but to praise it," Johnson said at the Washington Hilton Hotel. "I come not to purge its selection, but to urge its re-election."

At the armory, he offered this view:

"Congress is moved by abiding convictions, deep within the heart and soul of this nation, to stand up before the world to declare the will of this nation to resist aggression, defend freedom, honor our treaties and above all, work without ceasing anywhere, anytime for the peace of mankind."

Paratroopers Raid Red Camp, but Find No Reds

THUON GLANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Filling the air with war whoops, a company of American paratroopers charged into a bamboo thicket near Thuong Lang and found themselves in the middle of what apparently was a Viet Cong staging area.

The Communists had pulled out, but veterans of many patrols into Viet Cong country said the complex of thatched huts, bunkers and trenches was one of the best concealed they had ever seen. Officers said they believed it had been used as a staging area for one or possibly two companies of Viet Cong troops.

The discovery was made during an operation Thursday in which the 2nd Battalion of the 173rd Airborne Brigade "went north." The battalion crossed the Dong Nai River about 20 miles northeast of Saigon after many earlier patrols on the south side of the river.

Many of the paratroopers have expressed disappointment that they have not fought a major engagement since they arrived in Viet Nam almost two months ago. One sergeant, who said he served three years in Korea during the war there, said Korea was better "because there was some fighting going on."

"The trouble here," he said, "is nothing much happens, but you get the spooky feeling that everybody has his own Viet Cong looking at him from some place."

The paratroopers moved in shortly after dawn after air strikes had hit the northern banks of the Dong Nai with heavy blows of bombs and napalm.

Three waves of helicopters landed Charley Company in a jungle clearing. Erratic sniper fire met the Americans despite the softening up efforts of the aircraft. Bullets skimmed the water of flooded rice paddies, but the snipers apparently were firing from deep in their holes and their aim was off.

The paratroopers stormed toward the tree line, their automatic weapons and grenade launchers spreading a deadly sheet of fire in front of them. Hurdling paddy dikes, some of the big Americans sank in the soft earth and went sprawling.

Inside the tree line they first found an abandoned hut with signs that breakfast had been broken up. Rice and fish were still cooking in pots but there were no people. The paratroopers destroyed the hut. Two other companies joined Charley Company, and they began a sweep operation through the brush.

Johnson Pays Courtesy Call On Truman

KANSAS CITY (AP) — President Johnson marked the 20th birthday of the United Nations today by conferring here with Harry S. Truman, who was chief executive when the U.N. was born.

Before the two men got together for a private breakfast, however, Johnson took a Truman-style half-hour walk around downtown Kansas City.

From Missouri, Johnson was bound for San Francisco to address U.N. anniversary ceremonies.

The chief executive, rising early, visited the coffee shop of the Muehlebach Hotel, where he spent the night, about 6 a.m. He sat down for his morning coffee then embarked on a stroll.

Johnson personally greeted scores of shopkeepers and pedestrians during his stroll.

Today was the first meeting between Johnson and Truman since the President called on Truman at a Kansas City hospital last Oct. 21 while Truman was recovering from a fall.

Johnson told reporters he and Truman "talked about our problems in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic." He said they also reminisced about some of Truman's historic acts as chief executive.

Truman, beaming, said that "in my historic memory" no president ever made a greater impact than Johnson during his first months in the White House.

Man Disappears Mysteriously

JACKSON, Ohio (AP)—Sheriff's deputies and volunteers were continuing a search for a Jackson County farmer who has been missing since Tuesday.

The missing man is Harold Russ, 57. More than 100 persons joined in the search Thursday.

"We haven't got one single thing to go on," said Sheriff John Evans Friday.

"Nobody saw him disappear and nobody has seen him since," Evans said.

Russ disappeared Tuesday evening from his farm home during a five-minute period, the sheriff said, while his wife, Eloise, was no more than 200 feet away.

The blaze was quickly brought under control by the white aproned fire fighters, who then returned to the village hall to stoke the fires under the huge pans of frying fish.

German Reds Hint Tieup Of Traffic

BERLIN (AP) — The East German Communists threatened today to tie up barge and rail shipments to West Berlin. They also suggested that the four occupation powers give them control of air traffic to West Berlin.

The threat to barge and rail shipments was made by Transport Minister Edwin Kramer in a speech to the Communist party Central Committee published by Neues Deutschland, the party newspaper.

Kramer said permits for barge traffic between West Germany and West Berlin issued by the four occupation powers would not be acceptable after June 30.

He warned that East Germany would take necessary measures if the West German government does not reach agreement with the East German regime by then to establish new procedures.

This could mean that all barge traffic, averaging between 100 and 200 barges a day, would be stopped on July 1.

Concerning rail traffic, the East Germans want to increase freight rates by about 20 per cent, contrary to four-power rules. Kramer said if no agreement on this is reached between the Bonn and East German governments, all freight shipments will be issued new transit documents at the border stations instead of allowing shipments through on a single document as has been the practice.

This could lead to mammoth tie-ups of rail shipments at the various border crossing points.

Kelly said in his telegram he broke into the desk because he suspected Kovac of spying for Barry Goldwater, who ran against President Johnson last fall.

He said it was part of a "systematic search" of the whole party headquarters.

Kovac said it was "an interesting coincidence" that the search came only a day after Goldwater announced formation of his new Free Society Association, an organization Bliss has said will hurt the drive for party funds and unity.

Kovac, a Goldwater money raiser during the prenomination campaign, submitted his resignation as party finance director a month ago. It is effective next Thursday.

Kelly said the search party found a missing list of $1,000 party contributors and some Goldwater campaign films that had vanished. The former chief administrative assistant at GOP headquarters said he promptly reported to Bliss.

"He professed satisfaction with my work and the locating of the list and of the film copies," said Kelly.

Furthermore, Kelly denied he was fired.

"When the adverse publicity started to flow," he said, "the chairman weakened in his support of me and it was apparent that I was to be sacrificed."

"I submitted my resignation," he said. "A few minutes later, the chairman issued a statement saying in effect that I had been fired."

Kelly, back home in Cincinnati, added this parting shot: "I must confess that my short stay in politics in Washington has proven that a position with the Republican National Committee is more dangerous than that encountered in my time as a liaison pilot in World War II, and as much as I regret the entire situation, I am happy to be out of it."

Bliss was not available for comment on Kelly's statement.

Food Truck Strike Wanes Drivers Heeding Job Loss Threat

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The five-day wildcat strike of Teamster drivers began breaking up today as chain store food trucks, driven by Local 107 members threatened with loss of their jobs, delivered tons of fresh fruit, vegetables, fish and meat. In the first hours after dawn more than 100 trucks of Food Fair, Acme, A. P. and Penn Fruit left warehouses for supply - exhausted stores in the Greater Philadelphia area.

The drivers of Local 107, which had called the unauthorized "holiday" Monday in defiance of national Teamster leaders, reported for work after receiving warning telegrams from their chain store employers that they will be "considered to have quit" if they didn't come in this morning.

Emissaries of Teamster President James R. Hoffa circulated among the strikers trying to persuade them to go back to work. Hoffa reportedly dispatched 50 business agents from locals in other cities. He has condemned the walkout.

A manufacturing official estimated daily production losses at between $3 million and $4 million, with approximately 10,000 persons laid off at firms whose lines of supply and distribution had dwindled to nearly nothing. The Greater Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce estimated the figure will reach 100,000 by next week if the strike continues.

The strike by the 12,000-member Teamsters Local 107 affected an area from the New Jersey eastern shore, as far south as Wilmington, Del., west to Lancaster and north to Reading, Pa.

The walkout began Monday in support of four Teamsters' members fired by Roadway Express Inc. for refusing to perform work they considered hazardous. Roadway drivers have been on strike since June 11.

Paratroopers Raid Red Camp, but Find No Reds

THUON GLANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Filling the air with war whoops, a company of American paratroopers charged into a bamboo thicket near Thuong Lang and found themselves in the middle of what apparently was a Viet Cong staging area.

The Communists had pulled out, but veterans of many patrols into Viet Cong country said the complex of thatched huts, bunkers and trenches was one of the best concealed they had ever seen. Officers said they believed it had been used as a staging area for one or possibly two companies of Viet Cong troops.

The discovery was made during an operation Thursday in which the 2nd Battalion of the 173rd Airborne Brigade "went north." The battalion crossed the Dong Nai River about 20 miles northeast of Saigon after many earlier patrols on the south side of the river.

Many of the paratroopers have expressed disappointment that they have not fought a major engagement since they arrived in Viet Nam almost two months ago. One sergeant, who said he served three years in Korea during the war there, said Korea was better "because there was some fighting going on."

"The trouble here," he said, "is nothing much happens, but you get the spooky feeling that everybody has his own Viet Cong looking at him from some place."

The paratroopers moved in shortly after dawn after air strikes had hit the northern banks of the Dong Nai with heavy blows of bombs and napalm.

Three waves of helicopters landed Charley Company in a jungle clearing. Erratic sniper fire met the Americans despite the softening up efforts of the aircraft. Bullets skimmed the water of flooded rice paddies, but the snipers apparently were firing from deep in their holes and their aim was off.

The paratroopers stormed toward the tree line, their automatic weapons and grenade launchers spreading a deadly sheet of fire in front of them. Hurdling paddy dikes, some of the big Americans sank in the soft earth and went sprawling.

Inside the tree line they first found an abandoned hut with signs that breakfast had been broken up. Rice and fish were still cooking in pots but there were no people. The paratroopers destroyed the hut. Two other companies joined Charley Company, and they began a sweep operation through the brush.

Johnson Pays Courtesy Call On Truman

KANSAS CITY (AP) — President Johnson marked the 20th birthday of the United Nations today by conferring here with Harry S. Truman, who was chief executive when the U.N. was born.

Before the two men got together for a private breakfast, however, Johnson took a Truman-style half-hour walk around downtown Kansas City.

From Missouri, Johnson was bound for San Francisco to address U.N. anniversary ceremonies.

The chief executive, rising early, visited the coffee shop of the Muehlebach Hotel, where he spent the night, about 6 a.m. He sat down for his morning coffee then embarked on a stroll.

Johnson personally greeted scores of shopkeepers and pedestrians during his stroll.

Today was the first meeting between Johnson and Truman since the President called on Truman at a Kansas City hospital last Oct. 21 while Truman was recovering from a fall.

Johnson told reporters he and Truman "talked about our problems in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic." He said they also reminisced about some of Truman's historic acts as chief executive.

Truman, beaming, said that "in my historic memory" no president ever made a greater impact than Johnson during his first months in the White House.

Man Disappears Mysteriously

JACKSON, Ohio (AP) — Sheriff's deputies and volunteers were continuing a search for a Jackson County farmer who has been missing since Tuesday.

The missing man is Harold Russ, 57. More than 100 persons joined in the search Thursday.

"We haven't got one single thing to go on," said Sheriff John Evans Friday.

"Nobody saw him disappear and nobody has seen him since," Evans said.

CIRCLEVILLE Mayor Ben H. Gordon has received notification from the Ohio Bureau of Inspection that reduced fire insurance rates went into effect here Wednesday. Mayor Gordon said the new firefighting equipment purchased recently is greatly responsible for the reduced rates.

WHITE APRONS replaced the usual protective clothing worn by firemen when a grass fire raged out of control near Logan Elm High School yesterday.

The fire started at 4:30 p.m., when almost every able bodied person in the village of Tardion was assisting in some way at the annual firemen's fish fry.

The blaze was quickly brought under control by the white aproned fire fighters, who then returned to the village hall to stoke the fires under the huge pans of frying fish.

German Reds Hint Tieup Of Traffic

BERLIN (AP) — The East German Communists threatened today to tie up barge and rail shipments to West Berlin. They also suggested that the four occupation powers give them control of air traffic to West Berlin.

The threat to barge and rail shipments was made by Transport Minister Edwin Kramer in a speech to the Communist party Central Committee published by Neues Deutschland, the party newspaper.

Kramer said permits for barge traffic between West Germany and West Berlin issued by the four occupation powers would not be acceptable after June 30.

He warned that East Germany would take necessary measures if the West German government does not reach agreement with the East German regime by then to establish new procedures.

This could mean that all barge traffic, averaging between 100 and 200 barges a day, would be stopped on July 1.

Concerning rail traffic, the East Germans want to increase freight rates by about 20 per cent, contrary to four-power rules. Kramer said if no agreement on this is reached between the Bonn and East German governments, all freight shipments will be issued new transit documents at the border stations instead of allowing shipments through on a single document as has been the practice.

This could lead to mammoth tie-ups of rail shipments at the various border crossing points.

5 Prisoners Beat Lorain Lawmen, Flee

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Authorities pressed a search early today for five men, described as armed and dangerous, who overpowered three Lorain County deputies and escaped from the county jail Thursday night.

Two of the deputies were beaten with a blackjack taken from one of them.

The five escapees were identified as Robert S. Fay, 24, of Cleveland, Fred D. Hill, 28, Carl R. Mahaffey, 35, and Charles R. Twyman, 18, all of Elyria, and LeRoy J. Scharf, 19, for whom no address was available.

Deputy Walter Hill, 68, was overpowered by the five men when he went to their first-floor cell to remove a mop and bucket they had been using, and his gun was taken.

Radio dispatcher Norman Bennett, 37, was slugged on the back of his head and knocked from his chair.

Then he and Lt. Charles McDonald were locked in a padded cell.

The five prisoners, all in jail on felony charges, apparently kicked the screen out of a kitchen window to reach an alley behind the jail.

The first Ferris wheel highlighted the 1893 Chicago Exposition.

In a New York interview on her 21st birthday, she added: "This will strike most American teenagers as being, as they say, 'Greek' to them, but I believe that a relative or friend should accompany a girl on a date."

Doctor, Only 92, Plans Study When He 'Gets Old'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—"I'm going to study geriatrics—when I get old."

With that jaunty declaration, 92-year-old Dr. William Bentley Griggs, still an active physician, conceded there might be some reason for the fuss that's being made over his 71 years of medical practice.

Doctors and laymen will gather at a public meeting in Hahnemann Medical College tonight to honor him, and there will be many felicitations to read, from around this country and from abroad.

"It's quite a lot of frosting to put on the cake of a plain old family doctor," he said in an interview at his combined home and office in suburban Jenkintown. "I have had a lot of experience, though, and I'm always after more."

Slender, alert, the humor of his Scotch-Irish blood ever-present, Dr. Griggs ranged over a variety of subjects, expressing his views with an animation characteristic of far younger men.

"As long as my mind is clear—and it is now, I assure you—I'll not retire," he said. "After 90 I did slow up a bit. I take only office calls now, and have cut down on the number of patients. But I'm still a doctor."

"Retirement at 65? Nonsense. My judgment and perception were at their best when I was 65, in my last years of teaching at Hahnemann Medical College. I wouldn't be where I am now if I had retired at 65—or 75."

"Compulsory retirement is wrong," he continued, "and I agree with those in and out of my profession who say that companies who force people to retire at a given age are very behind the times. Think of the waste of ability, maturity and experience."

Dr. Griggs was born in Philadelphia on Sept. 8, 1872, the son of a physician-teacher at Jefferson Medical College. After his graduation from Hahnemann,

Cleveland Segregation Hearing Is Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland has been named as one of six northern cities in which a special House Education subcommittee will hold hearings this summer on complaints of segregation in schools.

Chairman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N. Y., said no date has been set for the hearing.

he did post-graduate work in Berlin.

Dr. Griggs' first wife died in 1945. In 1958 he married Irene Smith, a widow, over whose birth he presided.

"I won't soon forget how we first met," said the doctor.

Command Changes at Lockbourne

Lockbourne AFB will change commanders and major air commands Thursday. Tactical Air Command (TAC) will assume control of the base, ending 14 years of jurisdiction by the Strategic Air Command.

Colonel LeRoy M. Stanton, TAC's 840th Air Division commander, will officially take command of the base from Colonel Raymond F. Rudell, SAC's 301st Air Refueling Wing commander, at formal change of command ceremonies on base.

More than 250 military and civilian officials are expected to attend the ceremony, starting at 4 p.m. on the flightline.

A 250-man troop formation, representing the major units at Lockbourne, will parade in review during the changeover. TAC's 50-piece command band, led by Chief Warrant Officer Eugene A. Dieter, from Langley AFB, Va., will participate.

Following the ceremonies, a brief air show will be presented by Lockbourne-based aircraft. Nine Lockheed C-130 Hercules from the 317th Troop Carrier Wing will be put through their paces in an assault airlift demonstration.

Aircraft flybys will feature a SAC Boeing KC-135 Stratotanker from the 301st ARW, an 87th Fighter Interceptor Squadron (Air Defense Command) F-101B Voodoo and a F-100 Supersabre from the Ohio Air National Guard's 121st Tactical Fighter Wing at Lockbourne.

The general public is invited to attend.

Tax Payers Are Given Free Ride in Florida

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — Freedom from city taxes has been decreed for Coral Gables residents, at least three months.

City fathers uncovered the surprise package while tentatively approving a 1965-66 budget that goes into effect Oct. 1, three months later than usual, to conform with the county's budget year.

Rather than send out special bills to cover the gap, officials decided to give tax payers a free ride.

NEW YORK (AP) — A most unusual, experimental program aimed at a minority audience will occupy 90 minutes of CBS' expensive prime time Monday night.

From 9:30 to 11 p.m. (EDT) viewers will be regaled with the latest in beat music by more than 20 top singing acts beloved by the younger crowd. In between numbers there will be non-commercial commercials—in a language which older viewers may find difficult to understand.

The show is "It's What's Happening, Baby!" a public service "swingin' soiree" on behalf of the federal Office of Economic Opportunity. The special audience is youngsters between 16 and 21 who are thinking about quitting—or already have quit—high school before graduating.

Host and message-giver is a disc jockey named Murray Kaufman, 38, but always called "Murray the K" by his young fans. Murray is peculiarly qualified, for he was himself a high school drop-out, has an enormous youthful following, and speaks (and invented) a lot of the slangy hip talk that is almost a secret language of the kids.

"The OEO looked around and found that I was able to reach them," Murray explained during a rehearsal break. "When they first came to me with an idea, I thought they were trying to intellectualize the problem and said that I could perhaps present the idea another way."

The special is my idea. "As a drop-out myself, I've been there and I know what those kids on the streets of New York or in the hills of West Virginia or any place are thinking about. I couldn't care less about the nice little girls from Scarsdale or Shaker Heights—it's boys mostly. And the rapport will be mostly that it's what's happening."

Murray, CBS and the musical performers (who range from Herman's Hermits to the Cannibal and the Headhunters) are contributing their services.

Doctor, Only 92, Plans Study When He 'Gets Old'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—"I'm going to study geriatrics—when I get old."

With that jaunty declaration, 92-year-old Dr. William Bentley Griggs, still an active physician, conceded there might be some reason for the fuss hat's being made over his 71 years of medical practice.

Doctors and laymen will gather at a public meeting in Hahnemann Medical College tonight to honor him, and there will be many felicitations to read, from around this country and from abroad.

"It's quite a lot of frosting to put on the cake of a plain old family doctor," he said in an interview at his combined home and office in suburban Jenkintown. "I have had a lot of experience, though, and I'm always after more."

Slender, alert, the humor of his Scotch-Irish blood ever-present, Dr. Griggs ranged over a variety of subjects, expressing his views with an animation characteristic of far younger men.

"As long as my mind is clear—and it is now, I assure you—I'll not retire," he said. "After 90 I did slow up a bit. I take only office calls now, and have cut down on the number of patients. But I'm still a doctor."

"Retirement at 65? Nonsense. My judgment and perception were at their best when I was 65, in my last years of teaching at Hahnemann Medical College. I wouldn't be where I am now if I had retired at 65—or 75."

"Compulsory retirement is wrong," he continued, "and I agree with those in and out of my profession who say that companies who force people to retire at a given age are very behind the times. Think of the waste of ability, maturity and experience."

Dr. Griggs was born in Philadelphia on Sept. 8, 1872, the son of a physician-teacher at Jefferson Medical College. After his graduation from Hahnemann,

Cleveland Segregation Hearing Is Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland has been named as one of six northern cities in which a special House Education subcommittee will hold hearings this summer on complaints of segregation in schools.

Chairman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N. Y., said no date has been set for the hearing.

he did post-graduate work in Berlin.

Dr. Griggs' first wife died in 1945. In 1958 he married Irene Smith, a widow, over whose birth he presided.

"I won't soon forget how we first met," said the doctor.

"All I said was:
Show me a filter that delivers the taste and I'll eat my hat."

Tourists on the Move

Tourist season, which traditionally swings into high gear in late June, promises to be the greatest of all time. Hundreds of thousands are planning trips to far places, with a boom in foreign travel which finds airlines and steamships booked almost solid for the season.

Everywhere the story is the same, with reservations becoming more difficult to obtain. Every facility that lends itself to vacation enjoyment will be crowded to capacity this summer.

Those contemplating extensive trips are advised to make plans now if they have not already done so. Hotel and tourist resort accommodations should be definitely confirmed. In many regions resorts report solid bookings for the season, and those who go there without definite reservations may be disappointed if they expect to find accommodations.

Some tourist agency officials are unable to understand why so many people are going to Europe. But the American tourist is on the move, and there will be no stopping him.

Tale of Two Classmates

By John Chamberlain

At one's fortieth college reunion one doesn't pursue divisive topics. But the years drive deep chasms between various individuals' ways of thinking. Starting from the same premises about civilized values, people can end up one hundred and eighty degrees apart.

So let me tell the tale of two classmates who were roommates forty years ago at Yale. They are Dr. Benjamin Spock and Professor George Dyer. And let me hasten to say that, in spite of differences, they are still good friends.

Dr. Spock, as every mother in America knows, is the foremost living authority on the care and feeding of babies. His books sell in the millions; he is the trusted adviser to all those perplexed modern parents who are trying to walk a chalkline between permissive and authoritarian theories of child rearing.

Two universities, Yale and the University of Hartford, have just awarded Dr. Spock honorary degrees. As Archibald MacLeish said of Ernest Hemingway, "fame became of him."

Ben Spock is a man of great feeling and a deep lover of peace. His concern for children follows them long after they are grown up. He sees the young being brought, with no say-so on their own part, into a world of revolution and cruel destruction. He sees them menaced by the shadow of the bomb. And so Ben Spock, the lover of children, reacts. He joins those who want to use peaceful example to rid the world of nuclear threat. And he becomes a familiar figure at those banish - the - bomb demonstrations which impress balance-of-power realists as being somewhere on the scale between futility and giving the show away to enemies who do not care in the least for peace.

Professor George Dyer, who was Ben Spock's old roommate, has not achieved the fame of his old friend. But he is a solid man for all that. Long ago he wrote competent mystery stories. But the war cut across his writing career, and he found himself propelled, along with his wife Charlotte, into intelligence work in the U. S. Army. He and his wife have the unique distinction of having constituted a commissioned intelligence team, perhaps the only instance of its kind in military history.

George Dyer came out of the war with the conviction that peace is a matter of power aided by feather-edge intuition applied at moments of crucial confrontation with those who plot your ruin. He and his wife became professors of political science at the University of Pennsylvania, where they bring an "interdisciplinary" knowledge of the Central Intelligence Agency sort of thing to their course in political behavior. George Dyer is no armchair academician at heart.

In recent years he has added a "learning-by-doing" dimension to his course. Every so often he stages a war game for his new and old students, dividing them into two teams—or "armies"—and getting them out into rough Appalachian country to teach them the realities of such things as infiltration and guerrilla tactics. In this way he brings home to them the principles which Mao Tse-tung and Cuba's "Che" Guevara are following in their plot to subvert the world.

George Dyer's latest adventure in teaching-by-doing was to stage something called the "Warsaw Story." In some abandoned buildings somewhere in New Jersey he had his students re-enact the last stand of the Free Polish patriots against the Nazis. As the world should not be permitted to forget, the Free Poles rose against Hitler as the Soviet troops were approaching Warsaw. But the cynical Communists held up their advance just long enough to permit the Nazis to wipe out the flower of Polish patriotism. George thinks its good political science to let his students digest all this.

George Dyer loves peace just as profoundly as does his old roommate Ben Spock. But he doesn't think that peace can be divorced from the will to remain strong and clever enough to dissuade others from attempting to eat you up.

At reunion time one shies away from arguing about the problem posed by the Spock-Dyer intellectual confrontation. But it is the problem which practically every American is debating in his heart.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

The advantages of mother's milk over modern pasteurized milk seems to be a recurring topic of conversation in our circle of young mothers.

Some of these women are positive that breast feeding is the one and only way to insure the baby's health. This makes the others feel guilty for depriving their children of the advantages of breast feeding.

Mrs. K. S. B., Maine

Dear Mrs. B.: There is no need for you to feel guilty because you, like most mothers, have substituted bottled milk for mother's milk.

When people make a cult out of a particular health program, in their need for disciples they impose their enthusiasm on others.

You are not doing your child the injustice you are made to believe.

Before the turn of the century there were definite problems about the cleanliness, sterility and pasteurization of milk.

With the modern techniques for milking, processing and transportation, the possibility of milk contamination is negligible.

You need not feel guilty in the belief that bottled milk is not as nourishing as natural mother's milk. The early additions of vitamins and feedings of fruit juices insures sufficient nourishment for healthy body growth.

What then are the advantages of breast feeding to the mother and the child?

The single and most important advantage is the psychological bond that exists between the mother and child.

Does this mean that the bottle-fed child is deprived of emotional security? It does not.

There is more than sufficient scientific evidence that children who have never been nursed are physically and emotionally healthy. The close body contact that spells "security" can be given to the new born bottle-fed infant by cuddling the baby, a role that parents find delightful.

Other advantages? It is said that there are fewer thumb suckers among children who have been breast-fed. This does not seem to be sufficient reason for most mothers to abandon bottle-feeding.

The growth and happiness of a healthy infant does not depend entirely on the choice of a feeding technique.

Each mother, after consultation with her physician, must make her own choice; a choice that depends on the social circumstances as well as her own special needs.

The decision is purely a personal one. If there are no definite medical indications for a particular type of feeding, mothers must maintain their faith in their own judgment, uncomplicated by the myths and fancies that intrigue other mothers.

Girl Missionaries Are Unafraid

By Hal Boyle

KHE SANH, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two girl missionaries—an American and an Australian—are housekeeping in the wilds here in a mountain area long dominated by guerrillas.

They are Miss Eugenia Johnston of Houghton, N.Y., and Miss Nancy Costello of Sydney, Australia.

"We work with primitive tribes who don't have a written language," said Miss Johnston, who is slender and dark and wears glasses. "We write an alphabet for them, make textbooks and teach them to read and write."

"Then we bring them the word of God." She and Miss Costello, who is blonde and fair-skinned, represent the Summer Institute of Linguistics at Los Angeles and the Wycliffe Bible Translators of Santa Ana, Calif.

Both girls raised funds from church groups to finance their missionary task and each took a three-months course in jungle survival before coming here.

"They gave us a machete, and we had to make our own house and furniture," said Miss Costello. "But they did let us have matches and a snakebite kit."

The girls live now in a two-room, thatched-roofed bamboo stilt house, shaded by coffee trees, at the edge of the village.

It is several miles from the military compound in which dwells a U.S. Army Special Forces team of 14 men and several hundred native troops. The compound is protected by sandbags, mines, outposts and barbed wire.

The bamboo paradise is guarded only by a pet monkey, "Scooter." As some of the villagers regard monkey as a delicacy, "Scooter" is kept firmly leashed to bamboo stilt, where he does cartwheels all day long.

"We're not afraid," said Miss Johnston, who has spent nine months here and three years in Viet Nam. "Our only problem is the perpetual threat that the Viet Cong will push us out."

The American soldiers keep a watchful eye on the girls and periodically bring them gifts of food. The girls repaid them recently by cooking them a Sunday dinner of pies and cookies.

Just as Robinson Crusoe had a man servant on his island, the two girls have a butler, too. He is one of the Montagnards, or mountain tribes people whom the girls are teaching.

"His name isn't Friday but Ayooq," said Miss Johnston. "Ayooq helps us prepare vegetables and sweeps the mission school. He'll do anything to be helpful. He's very conscientious."

Teaching the poverty-stricken mountain people to read and write isn't easy. Their language has 62 sounds, including 40 vowels, and has at least 30 different tribal dialects.

"We work with the Brown tribe," said Miss Johnston.

2 Big Problems Due To Face Ohio Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two of the toughest problems of the legislative session will face the Ohio Senate Monday on the lawmakers' return from week-end recess.

Sensors have up for a vote the record $1.5 billion general appropriations measure and the highly controversial bill to extend school bus transportation to private and parochial school pupils.

A real fight looms on the big money bill, which triggered a warm-up bout between Senate leaders Thursday.

Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray, R-Miami, and Senate Democratic Leader Frank W. King, D-Lucas, clashed over a call by Republican for the Senate to meet today to consider the bill. Democrats rejected the call.

Gray noted that the legislature is under a fiscal deadline of July 1 to enact the big money bill and asserted that if state paydays and other obligations are delayed, Democrats will have to bear "the onus."

King countered that the much amended bill "is not ready for a vote now and for that matter, it won't be ready Monday." He added however, that Democrats stand ready to cooperate with Republicans to see that state checks are not delayed.

Republicans and Democrats have argued on an amendment by Sen. Oliver Ocasek, D-Summit, which would permit payment of state "housekeeping" bills but leave appropriations for education and welfare un-revised.

In other developments Thursday, the House approved without dissent an $890 million measure appropriating funds for the Highway and Highway Safety departments for the 1965-67 biennium. The bill now goes back to the Senate for action on House amendments adding $1.1 million for 50 more highway patrolmen and employe pay raises.

Other bills approved by the House would authorize boards of education to maintain school bus turn-around facilities and permit county school superintendents to locate offices away from county seats.

Revisions of leasing procedures for state land at six lakes is called for in another House-approved bill. The lakes are Buckeye, Indian, St. Marys, Guilford, Lorain, and Portage.

The Development Department will conduct a feasibility study on a proposed pipeline to carry water from Lake Erie to North-Central Ohio counties under a bill passed by the Senate and sent to the governor.

2 Ohioans Convicted In Pennsy Robbery

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — John E. Frutschy, 32, and James D. Canakis, 33, both of Canton, Ohio, and Alexander H. Levy, 33, of the Bronx, N.Y., were convicted Thursday of robbing an elderly couple in suburban Leet Township last April 29.

They were held in the Allegheny County Jail pending a pre-sentence investigation.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Medical Association ran up against City Hall and then occurred one of the strange coincidences of history.

For 15 years the AMA and its presidents successfully fought passage of a federal medicare program which would provide health care for the aged through a Social Security tax.

The AMA spent a bale of money doing it, this year almost $1 million in the first three months.

Among other things the organization, with a membership of about 206,000 doctors, argued medicare would introduce a third party, the government, into the doctor-patient relationship.

But the tide was running against the AMA at last. Under President Johnson's prodding, and with his own Democrats in overwhelming control of Congress, approval of his medicare plan seemed certain this year.

Last February, still butting its head against medicare, the AMA endorsed another plan called "eldercare."

Then last April 8 the House by a 313-115 vote approved medicare. Senate approval and final passage seemed certain after the Senate Finance Committee gave its okay and sent it up for a vote.

The AMA, facing this prospect, met this week in New

New Crisis Possible in Berlin Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials believe a dangerous situation may be building up around Berlin as a result of apparent Communist threats to transportation links with West Germany.

Most immediate concern is expressed here over flights of East German helicopters into the air traffic control zone in Berlin. Aerial activity in the zone beyond the control of the East - West Air Safety Center could result in a serious accident, officials said.

The White House, State Department and Defense Department have been watching the development of Communist pressures closely for several days.

Allied military sources in Berlin reported today that Soviet and East German troops have been deployed along the Elbe River bridge on the Berlin superhighway and were regarded here as a further harassment of the traffic flow between Berlin and West Germany.

Speculation over the Soviet purpose covered a wide range of possibilities. One view held here is that the Soviet leadership may regard the Berlin situation as a diversion from its troubles with Red China and its inability to take any effective action in the Vietnamese crisis.

By James Marlow

York and some doctors promptly submitted 10 strong resolutions urging physicians to boycott the health plan if it became law.

This was too much for the new president, Dr. James Z. Appel, 58, a surgeon of Lancaster, Pa., who sternly warned his fellow doctors such a boycott would be unethical as well as "impractical and not good citizenship."

But out on the sidewalks old folks marched and shouted support of medicare, chanting as they picketed: "Two-four-eight, A-M-A cooperate."

Then Thursday came the coincidence:

The Senate Finance Committee approved the medicare bill and will send it up to the full Senate which is expected to pass it after the July 4 recess.

And the AMA turned aside the boycott proposals although it warned it would not cooperate in any health program that interferes with a doctor's judgment and skill.

And it decided to look over the situation again when, and if, the medicare plan becomes law.

As a medical organization, the AMA is not unique in its opposition to a government medicare program. In countries around the world with government health care, doctors have protested against such systems, or certain conditions within the systems.

But most of the fighting was lost motion, which is what the AMA may be thinking now.

Bills to add hospitalization benefits to Social Security were introduced in Congress as early as 1942, only six years after the retirement system itself began.

They were reintroduced again and again but made no headway.

Presidents Harry S. Truman, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and John F. Kennedy in one way or another moved in the direction of a health care program.

A chief reason for the mounting support of medicare is that almost no family has been free of the rising cost of illness, with mounting doctor and hospital fees.

This, added to the huge Democratic control of Congress, after the 1964 election, plus Johnson's insistence upon a medicare program, made the whole business a City Hall which the AMA couldn't lick.

But the tide was running against the AMA at last. Under President Johnson's prodding, and with his own Democrats in overwhelming control of Congress, approval of his medicare plan seemed certain this year.

Last February, still butting its head against medicare, the AMA endorsed another plan called "eldericare."

Then last April 8 the House by a 313-115 vote approved medicare. Senate approval and final passage seemed certain after the Senate Finance Committee gave its okay and sent it up for a vote.

The AMA, facing this prospect, met this week in New York and some doctors promptly submitted 10 strong resolutions urging physicians to boycott the health plan if it became law.

This was too much for the new president, Dr. James Z. Appel, 58, a surgeon of Lancaster, Pa., who sternly warned his fellow doctors such a boycott would be unethical as well as "impractical and not good citizenship."

But out on the sidewalks old folks marched and shouted support of medicare, chanting as they picketed: "Two-four-eight, A-M-A cooperate."

Then Thursday came the coincidence:

The Senate Finance Committee approved the medicare bill and will send it up to the full Senate which is expected to pass it after the July 4 recess.

And the AMA turned aside the boycott proposals although it warned it would not cooperate in any health program that interferes with a doctor's judgment and skill.

And it decided to look over the situation again when, and if, the medicare plan becomes law.

As a medical organization, the AMA is not unique in its opposition to a government medicare program. In countries around the world with government health care, doctors have protested against such systems, or certain conditions within the systems.

But most of the fighting was lost motion, which is what the AMA may be thinking now.

Bills to add hospitalization benefits to Social Security were introduced in Congress as early as 1942, only six years after the retirement system itself began. They were reintroduced again and again but made no headway.

Presidents Harry S. Truman, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and John F. Kennedy in one way or another moved in the direction of a health care program.

A chief reason for the mounting support of medicare is that almost no family has been free of the rising cost of illness, with mounting doctor and hospital fees.

This, added to the huge Democratic control of Congress, after the 1964 election, plus Johnson's insistence upon a medicare program, made the whole business a City Hall which the AMA couldn't lick.

New Crisis Possible in Berlin Area

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials believe a dangerous situation may be building up around Berlin as a result of apparent Communist threats to transportation links with West Germany.

Most immediate concern is expressed here over flights of East German helicopters into the air traffic control zone in Berlin. Aerial activity in the zone beyond the control of the East - West Air Safety Center could result in a serious accident, officials said.

The White House, State Department and Defense Department have been watching the development of Communist pressures closely for several days.

Allied military sources in Berlin reported today that Soviet and East German troops have been deployed along the Elbe River bridge on the Berlin superhighway and were regarded here as a further harassment of the traffic flow between Berlin and West Germany.

Speculation over the Soviet purpose covered a wide range of possibilities. One view held here is that the Soviet leadership may regard the Berlin situation as a diversion from its troubles with Red China and its inability to take any effective action in the Vietnamese crisis.

Suggestions For Keeping Pillows Clean

By ELEANOR ROSS

Pillows must be kept clean both for sanitary reasons and to retain their comfortable resiliency — so here's a session of pillow talk.

Almost all pillows are eminently washable and should be laundered once or twice a year.

Suds-and-water is the reliable washing formula although the method varies according to the filling.

Most pillows actually have two coverings — an inner case of lightweight fabric, plus an outer ticking or decorative slip-cover. Any non-washable "shell" must be removed at the start.

It is also advisable to remove and wash ticking separately because this fabric is so closely woven that it keeps suds and water from circulating through the filling.

If a pillow has no lining, rip a few inches on the ticking seams on the opposite sides and fasten these openings with loose basting or overcast stitches. This allows the dirt to escape, but not the filling.

Feather, down, Acrilan, Dacron, and Orlon-filled pillows can be laundered and dried by machine. To balance the washer load, put two pillows in or add clean towels.

Use extra suds with feather pillows, because this filling causes suds to die down quickly.

Pillows tend to float on water surface, so, if possible, turn them over during washing to give both sides a thorough sudsing. Rinse well, re-stitch openings, then dryer-dry at a low setting or hang them out on a breezy day.

Shake and punch pillows several times during drying to plump up and fluff the filling.

Latex foam rubber pillows can be machine-washed, using a 5-minute washing cycle with warm suds. Unless the pillow is already covered, place it in a mesh bag or a pillow case with its open end fastened by loose stitches to prevent the foam from shredding or breaking during the machine action.

Foam pillows may be left in an automatic washer during the machine action.

To dry shredded foam rubber pillows, follow these directions given for pillows filled with solid latex foam rubber.

To dry solid foam, place each pillow between two thick bath towels and press out as much moisture as possible by hand. Then set it in an airy spot to dry, or put it into a pillowcase and pin this on a line. Latex foam rubber, because of its density, is extremely slow drying.

For hand-washing these pillows, use a deep tub or bathtub to allow room for suds and rinses. Circulate suds with a squeezing motion. At least three rinses are necessary to remove all residue of dirt from the millions of tiny air spaces in latex foam rubber.

Polyurethane foam pillows are best washed by hand in warm suds. Don't twist or wring. Just compress each pillow with an up and down motion of your palm to create an ebb-and-flow of suds — or force suds through the pillow with a plumber's plunger. If the cover is extra dirty scrub it with thick suds on a soft brush. Then rinse thoroughly.

Polyurethane pillows can be safely tumble-dried at any setting, or may be air-dried after pressing out excess moisture between towels.

Plastic foam dries slowly. It will pay off in saved time and effort to cover each bed pillow with an inner case of muslin. Then put a zipper on the out-

Miss Caplinger Becomes Bride of John Drummond

MRS. JOHN DRUMMOND

Miss Rosemary Caplinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Caplinger, Route 1, Washington C. H., and Mr. John Drummond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Miley Drummond, Route 1, Orient, were united in marriage 3:30 p. m., June 20, in the First Baptist Church, Washington C. H.

The Rev. Douglas Peters performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with gladioli, white shasta daisies and two seven-branch candelabra with greenery and white satin bows.

Mrs. Paul Brunner, aunt of the bride, was organist and Miss Judy Drummond was soloist for a program of appropriate nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a white floor length gown designed with a lace bodice enhanced with a V-shaped scalloped neckline, long sleeves tapering to points, and a softly pleated skirt of taffeta and silk organza with a short chapel train. A large rose with tulle leaf shaped petals held her shoulder length veil of tulle and she carried a cascade bouquet of shasta daisies. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Miss Karen Beaver, Cambridge, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Fryer, Columbus and Mrs. Robert Caplinger of Blanchester, sister-in-law of the bride. The attendants wore identical street length dresses of ice blue taffeta peau each fashioned with a round neckline and pleated skirt highlighted with a cummerbund and bow. Their flowers were yellow and white shasta daisies. Miss Nancy Brunner, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a street length dress of white Madeira lace accented with a blue cummerbund and bow and she carried a basket of white shasta daisies.

Mr. Robert Drummond served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Mr. Robert Caplinger and Mr. John Caplinger,

News of World in Brief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Record low temperatures chilled Ohio today and the Weather Bureau blamed high pressure over the upper Great Lakes.

A low of 46 degrees at Cleveland shattered the old record of 50 for the date set in 1881.

Record lows were recorded at Akron (46) and Columbus (46). Youngstown reported the lowest state mark, 43 degrees.

Weather Bureau spokesman, however, estimated the low at near 40 degrees in the Hocking Hills of southeast Ohio where Gov. James A. Rhodes spent the night camping out.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Mrs. Pauline Hartlieb, 62, died early today a few hours after she and her husband, Harry, 63, had been shot in their apartment in the Clifton area.

The husband was in critical condition.

Police held Ned Dilworth, 56. They quoted Dilworth as saying he had been a friend of the Hartliebs for 30 years.

Officers said they were told Dilworth recently lost his job as a painting estimator and that he went to the Hartlieb home to talk about it. They said Dilworth told them an argument ensued and he first hit Hartlieb with a gun and then shot him and then Mrs. Hartlieb.

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — A U.S. Army general court-martial board today convicted Lt. Richard B. Steinke, 27, of Milwaukee, Wis., of refusing to join a Special Forces counterterrorism unit in South Viet Nam last January.

The argument of the lieutenant, who was graduated 55th in the 600-man West Point class of 1962, was that he disagreed with U.S. policy in Viet Nam and that the war there "is not worth one American life."

When the board retires to consider sentence, expected sometime Saturday, it could sentence the young officer to dismissal from the service, forfeiture of all pay and allowances and five years at hard labor as the maximum.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has disclosed some of its plans for the next Gemini orbital mission.

The date, however, hasn't been set, although there has been speculation that the Gemini-Titan 5 will be launched in early August.

Dr. George E. Mueller, associate administrator for manned space flight, said Thursday that the GT5 will be equipped with radar to help it rendezvous with a target capsule.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A go-ahead on a multimillion-dollar extension of the Capitol's west front has been ordered, after warnings from architects that the wall might collapse and kill someone.

The Joint Commission on the Capitol, headed by House Speaker John McCormack, Thursday ordered Capitol architect J. George Stewart to begin planning the project. Stewart estimated it would cost between $24 million and $31 million.

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP) — Police say the bombing of the U.S. Consulate General Thursday may have been the work of a gang responsible for a wave of sabotage throughout this British colony in South America.

The blast just after the 5 p.m. closing time wrecked the John F. Kennedy Library on the ground floor and extensively damaged two other floors.

A young local employee, alone in the library, was injured and hospitalized.

Prime Minister Forbes Burnham expressed shock "at the disreputable and dastardly act" and sent apologies to U.S. Consul-General Delmar Carlson. Burnham promised a thorough investigation.

CAIRO (AP)—The Soviet Union is responding "immediately" to an urgent Egyptian appeal for 300,000 tons of wheat, the semi-official newspaper Al Ahran reported today.

Al Ahran's front page carried the report next to news agency reports of U.S. congressional debates aimed at halting further food shipment to the United Arab Republic.

The U.S. State Department announced Tuesday that President Johnson had decided to send the U.A.R. $37 million in surplus food. This fulfills the remainder of a U.S. commitment under a three-year agreement that expires June 30.

MOSCOW (AP)—At first the audience responded with a trickle of applause, but at the end of the performance it clapped warmly for about five minutes.

The Russian-language version of the American musical "West Side Story" was previewed Thursday night in a Moscow theater long devoted to old-fashioned Viennese light opera.

AMSTERDAM (AP)—Charlie Chaplin says he will leave his Erasmus Prize of 50,000 guilders—about $15,000—in Holland for the poor who want to be educated.

Chaplin shared 100,000 guilders Thursday with Swedish film director Ingmar Bergman, who was absent because of illness, for cultural contributions to Europe.

The Erasmus Foundation specifies part of the money must go to some European cultural or educational purpose in agreement between the recipient and the foundation.

BERLIN (AP)—Lothar Bolz, East German foreign minister, has resigned. The official news agency ADN said the East German Council of Ministers accepted his resignation Thursday because of his ill health.

Otto Winzer, who had been acting foreign minister for several months, succeeded Bolz.

Bolz has been suffering from a heart condition.

DULURA, Calif. (AP)—Patrick N. Reid, 14, listened intently as the commencement speaker told the graduating class it should prepare to meet the challenge of an ever-changing society.

Dr. John F. Paul, a San Diego educator, was speaking only to Reid. The teen-ager comprised the entire 1965 graduating class of the Dulzura school district in San Diego County. Dulzura had 23 pupils this year.

British immigrants, including many from the Falkland Islands, pioneered in Patagonia, Argentina, near the end of the last century.

Capping Ceremony Held For Red Cross Voluntees

Capping for the newly trained Voluntees was the highlight of a special program conducted by the Pickaway County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Installation of officers was conducted by Mrs. Etha Mae Wolford. Officers for the coming year are Betsy Hamrick, chairman; Yvonne Sabine, vice chairman; Sonnie Stone, secretary and treasurer. Members of the council are Barbara Rackett, Sandra Trego, Kathy Frericks, Lorna Poling, Sue Barnhill and Georgia Cook.

Special music was sung by Lorna Poling. The song was the "Sound of Music" accompanied by Lynn Fraunfelner.

Governor Camps in Hocking Hills

LOGAN, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes, who says camping out is "real fun," resumed his tourism-boosting tour of southeast Ohio today after sleeping out in what may have been record low temperatures.

It was 49 degrees here at 6 a.m. but cooler back in the hills where the governor and party of about 200 breakfasted on bacon and eggs.

Rhodes is on a two-day tour of the Hocking Hills area to sell "the Wonderful World of Ohio" to the state's residents.

The governor spent Thursday night camped above Old Man's Cave in Hocking County. He slept in a camping trailer, one of 12 on the tour.

Rhodes' daughter, Sharon, 15, and children of other state officials prepared Thursday night's meal—cube steak, baked potatoes and beans.

Then the governor and his party joined around the campfire for a round of singing.

Rhodes, planning several such trips this summer to boost the state's scenic attractions, intended to tour Hocking State Park today. Stops scheduled include Ash Cave, Cedar Falls, Cantwell Cliffs, Conkle's Hollow, Burr Oak Lake and Lake Hope.

A fish-fry at Tar Hollow State Park tonight ends the tour.

Explorer Disavows 'Abominable Snowman'

NEW DELHI (AP)—The leader of the successful Indian Everest expedition said today "there is nothing to support the existence of an abominable snowman" in the high Himalayas.

Cmdr. M.S. Kohli, who put nine men on top of Everest in four attempts, told newsmen they found some footprints which he thought were of high-altitude bears or snow leopards.

He said during his 10-year experience in the Himalayas he found nothing to substantiate the existence of a snowman, "abominable or otherwise."

New Viet Premier's Ban On Newspapers Is Rapped

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky threw a brick into a political hornet's nest when he ordered all 36 of Saigon's Vietnamese-language newspapers to close on July 1.

For sheer political audacity, the new military premier's action Thursday was unequaled, even under President Ngo Dinh Diem's dictatorship.

Each newspaper is essentially the organ of a political faction or pressure group. Most publishers are also leading political figures.

The Roman Catholics, the Buddhists, the Cao Daists and the Hoa Haos also have their own newspapers.

Since Diem's overthrow in 1963, the Saigon government has changed five times. Each time, the press has played a big role. The bulk of the newspapers opposed each government.

This was probably the major factor in Ky's decision to play rough. By closing all papers for one month, until they can be reorganized along lines satisfactory to the government, he avoids the risk of showing partiality to any faction.

While the government has licensed 36 Vietnamese-language newspapers, nearly double that number have sought licenses. None has a circulation of more than about 4,000 daily. Under law, they can have only four pages, to conserve expensive newsprint.

Each edition of each newspaper is closely censored by the National Psychological Warfare Ministry. Offensive stories, headlines and photographs are cut.

No effort is made to conceal censorship. Even front pages appear with columns or spots of white space. The government has mainly censored items it regarded as distortions or inaccuracies.

Some newspapers became little more than scandal sheets and means of extortion.

Others seemed to be making a conscientious effort to cover the political and military news of the country.

Ky was nearly mobbed by an angry group of newsmen when he announced his action.

Ky decreed that during July there would be two official newspapers—one for the "rear" meaning Saigon and one for the "front" presumably meaning the rest of the nation.

Arc Welding Tycoon Dies At Age 82

CLEVELAND (AP) — James Finney Lincoln, 82, a leading industrialist and chairman of the board of the Lincoln Electric Co. in Euclid died in St. Luke's Hospital Wednesday.

He developed what was called "incentive management" and used it to make the company the world's largest manufacturer of arc welding machines and electrodes.

Lincoln, who entered the hospital Monday, was elected to the board of the Big Three Industrial Gas Equipment Co. of Houston, Tex., Wednesday, shortly before his death.

He joined Lincoln Electric—founded by his older brother, John in 1907 after illness forced him to leave Ohio State University in his senior year. He became vice president in 1911 and president in 1928, a post he held until becoming chairman of the board in 1954.

Irked Autoist Gets Time to Cool Off

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Michael J. Byrnes, 20, of West Springfield, took direct action when his car broke down.

He picked up a rock and smashed the windows and dented the fenders.

Then he stalked away, abandoning the car which he said "was not good to me anymore." Neighbors complained and he was charged with breach of peace.

In Springfield District Court Wednesday, Judge Charles D. Sloan continued the case to Dec. 25 to let Byrnes "cool off."

Local Baha'i Group Lists Weekly Thought

The following is from Baha'i teachings: "The true reality of man is his spiritual nature; yet modern man seems to have voluntarily renounced this reality and proclaimed himself nothing more than a higher animal. For this reason, he is incapable of realizing that his happiness and survival depend on harmony of his will with the Will of the Author of the universe."

"Divine laws are as real as physical laws, but are understood only through reason and faith, rather than through reason and the senses. The essence of history is the relationship between temporal man and eternal God."

'Folk Song Mass' Offered In Utah Episcopal Church

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — It was Sunday morning at St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Salt Lake City. But it sounded more like a Friday night hootenanny.

"The American folk song mass" was being strummed before more than 600 toe-tapping, head-bobbing Christians.

And its composer, the Rev. Ian Douglas Mitchell, 38—who speaks more like a jazz musician than a priest—was leading the whole unorthodox service with his guitar.

"Man," says Father Mitchell, "the winds of change are ripping through the church."

And he's right in the middle of it, strumming his new style folk music hymns or pouring out an updated version of the feeding of the five thousand.

"The church must use contemporary forms if she is to be contemporary and speak to the time at any age," he declares. "Folk music is the music of the people reflecting their lives and loves, joys and sorrows, hopes and fears."

"It expresses the deep things of life as it is lived with an underlying acceptance of its realities, but with the hope of better things to come."

And it was a deep and hopeful service at St. Mark's—not a revival.

Two guitars, one banjo and two bass players squeezed with their instruments alongside a choir of college and church singers—all but hiding a silent organ near the altar.

People looked at each other and smiled as they were caught up in the tempo of Father Mitchell's version of "The Lord's Prayer" and "Gloria in Excelsis."

And no one settled back for a snooze during his sermon either.

What might seem like the folk singer's answer to jazz in the church began as an experiment. Canadian-born Father Mitchell says he didn't compose the American folk song mass as a "gimmick to draw people to church. It was not a revolt against the traditional music of the church. This work began in 1958 as an experiment to study the use of the folk song idiom in the liturgy of the church."

It was during his last year at Nashotah House Theological Seminary, Nashotah, Wis., that he got the idea.

Music had always meant much to him. He played trombone professionally during his student days at Butler University.

And he had studied at the Jordan Music Conservatory in Indianapolis and the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago before dedicating his life to God.

When he became interested in the guitar at the seminary it wasn't long before he was using it to entertain his fellow students.

He started changing a few hymns to folk music. And then he got an idea to change the music of the mass.

"I was toying with the idea and my friends said, 'Do it—that's something worthwhile. So I decided to try it—just as an experiment.'"

It took him a year—working on and off. He completed it while he was curate at Trinity Church in Anderson, Ind.

Although many churches in which it was first played were in college towns, both old and young were enthusiastic. Father Mitchell would hold a Saturday night session to explain the folk song mass—followed by a hootenanny. And Sunday morning he would see many of the same faces at the service.

In 1962, the music was recorded and sold commercially. The score was published in book form, and Father Mitchell became a recognized rebel in church music circles.

In August 1964, he arrived at Bluff, in the southeast corner of Utah, to serve as assistant priest at St. Christopher's Mission to the Navajo Indians.

Father Mitchell lives with his wife, Caroline, and four children in a trailer house on the reservation.

What does he think of folk music in the church?

"It'll never replace the great church music," he smiles, "but it's good for a change."

STILL WATERS

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Who would guess that just out of sight there's a six-lane turnpike! Thousands of people drive past this peaceful place every day, and never know it exists. Occasionally, through a break in the sheltering trees, someone glimpses shining water and green pasture-land in the distance... then the road curves, and the lovely scene is forgotten.

Many travellers hurry along life's road with empty hearts and unseeing eyes, never realizing what the transforming beauty of the Christian faith could mean to them. Because they always expect to find happiness around the next bend, they overlook the still waters of spiritual peace.

In the quiet, hallowed atmosphere of the Church, God answers man's deepest needs. Through prayer and worship, our souls are strengthened and restored. And when we continue our journey, we are not alone. God is with us.

Arc Welding Tycoon Dies At Age 82

CLEVELAND (AP) — James Finney Lincoln, 82, a leading industrialist and chairman of the board of the Lincoln Electric Co. in Euclid died in St. Luke's Hospital Wednesday.

He developed what was called "incentive management" and used it to make the company the world's largest manufacturer of arc welding machines and electrodes.

Lincoln, who entered the hospital Monday, was elected to the board of the Big Three Industrial Gas Equipment Co. of Houston, Tex., Wednesday, shortly before his death.

He joined Lincoln Electric—founded by his older brother, John in 1907 after illness forced him to leave Ohio State University in his senior year. He became vice president in 1911 and president in 1928, a post he held until becoming chairman of the board in 1954.

Irked Autoist Gets Time to Cool Off

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Michael J. Byrnes, 20, of West Springfield, took direct action when his car broke down.

He picked up a rock and smashed the windows and dented the fenders.

Then he stalked away, abandoning the car which he said "was not good to me anymore."

Neighbors complained and he was charged with breach of peace.

In Springfield District Court Wednesday, Judge Charles D. Sloan continued the case to Dec. 23 to let Byrnes "cool off."

Local Baha'i Group Lists Weekly Thought

The following is from Baha'i teachings: "The true reality of man is his spiritual nature; yet modern man seems to have voluntarily renounced this reality and proclaimed himself nothing more than a higher animal. For this reason, he is incapable of realizing that his happiness and survival depend on harmony of his will with the Will of the Author of the universe."

"Devine laws are as real as physical laws, but are understood only through reason and faith, rather than through reason and the senses. The essence of history is the relationship between temporal man and eternal God."

'Folk Song Mass' Offered In Utah Episcopal Church

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — It was Sunday morning at St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Salt Lake City. But it sounded more like a Friday night hootenanny.

"The American folk song mass" was being strummed before more than 600 toe-tapping, head-bobbing Christians.

And its composer, the Rev. Ian Douglas Mitchell, 38—who speaks more like a jazz musician than a priest—was leading the whole unorthodox service with his guitar.

"Man," says Father Mitchell, "the winds of change are ripping through the church."

And he's right in the middle of it, strumming his new style folk music hymns or pouring out an updated version of the feeding of the five thousand.

"The church must use contemporary forms if she is to be contemporary and speak to the time at any age," he declares.

"Folk music is the music of the people reflecting their lives and loves, joys and sorrows, hopes and fears.

"It expresses the deep things of life as it is lived with an underlying acceptance of its realities, but with the hope of better things to come."

And it was a deep and hopeful service at St. Mark's—not a revival.

Two guitars, one banjo and two bass players squeezed with their instruments alongside a choir of college and church singers—all but hiding a silent organ near the altar.

People looked at each other and smiled as they were caught up in the tempo of Father Mitchell's version of "The Lord's Prayer" and "Gloria in Excelsis."

And no one settled back for a snooze during his sermon either.

What might seem like the folk singer's answer to jazz in the church began as an experiment.

Seeds of Disunity

SPIRITUAL DECLINE ACCOMPANIES THE ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL GREATNESS OF SOLOMON'S REIGN.

Scripture — I Kings 9:15-11:15.

By R. H. RAMSEY

NO KING ever began his reign with more promise than did Solomon. The son of the great King David, Solomon had, apparently, inherited David's many virtues and few of his vices. We shall find, however, that he had certain weaknesses which left his kingdom a shambles, divided the nation, and brought about that final dissolution of the kingdom of Israel and the scattering of his people to the ends of the earth.

But, in many ways Solomon was a truly great ruler. He was said to be incomparably wise and a devout worshiper of the Lord. His foreign-relations policies showed a modern-day astuteness, in that he allied himself with his neighbors rather than fight with them. Thus he avoided the ravaging of his country by constant warfare.

Too, Solomon was probably as learned a man as has ever appeared in human history, a genius with a variety of interests. With a reign of peace, Solomon had the time, energy and financial means for great building projects, developing an extensive commerce with other nations, and generally enriching his kingdom. All these achievements were glorious to behold, but they contained the seeds of disunity that would grow into national ruin.

The reign of Solomon was the "Golden Age" of Israel, an era of peace and prosperity, glory and grandeur. The boundaries of the kingdom stretched from the Euphrates to the land of the Philistines and on to the borders of Egypt; the people were eating, drinking and making merry, for they "dwelt safely, every man under his vine and under his fig tree."

But it was a false prosperity and superficial grandeur. Solomon's lavish expenditures depleted the nation's resources and brought it to the verge of bankruptcy. Most of the country had a poor, peasant economy, in vivid contrast to richness of the capital. Solomon's enslavement of minority groups within his realm and the levying of increasingly higher taxes (as well as his later toleration of foreign gods) caused much

Toledo Bills Water Thief

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Housewives' complaints about rusty water put an end to a hijacking operation in which thousands of gallons of Toledo's water were trucked to Temperance, Mich., to fill new swimming pools, the Toledo water commissioner says.

Paul Findlay, the commissioner, said that for a week two tank trucks hauled water from a hydrant near the Ohio-Michigan line and dumped it in swimming pools built at Temperance by a Toledo contractor.

Findlay said he has sent a bill for $150 for water and services to the swimming pool builder.

SPIRITUAL DECLINE ACCOMPANIES THE ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL GREATNESS OF SOLOMON'S REIGN.

popular unrest, which ended in the division of the kingdom at his death.

Solomon exceeded all the other kings of the earth in riches as well as wisdom, and he displayed his wealth ostentatiously. He had the biggest of everything, built the glorious Temple of Jerusalem and erected for himself a palace that caused the world to stand speechless in astonishment.

He had the most pretentious court, with golden chariots and drinking vessels, and an ivory throne overlaid with gold. He had the largest harem — 700 wives and 300 concubines, most of whom he wouldn't have recognized had he passed them in the palace courtyard—and the smallest family — Biblical historians record only one son.

The account of the visit of the queen of Sheba affords the most effective climax to the summary of Solomon's splendor and wisdom. Having heard of Solomon's wisdom and wealth, she journeyed to Jerusalem to see for herself. Being rich she was unlikely to be much impressed by any ordinary display of wealth, but Solomon's opulence—as well as his wisdom—must have astounded her, for her admiration was eloquent.

In the midst of this unprecedented material glory apostasy, idolatry and licentiousness began manifesting themselves.

Despite his wisdom, Solomon "loved many strange women," contrary to the moral laws he was bound to uphold. Some were hostages; others had been received into Solomon's harem as a compliment to a father or brother with whom Solomon wished to be on good political terms.

Probably for political reasons, also, Solomon allowed these women to continue worshipping their own false gods and pagan deities. Thus his wives turned his heart away from God and into the paths of idolatry.

The Lord was angry with this apostasy, but refused to destroy the nation. Instead He told Solomon that as punishment the kingdom would be divided and most of it given to another line of kings.

Loveland Says Double Tax Decision Is Disappointing

LOVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Officials of this Cincinnati suburb who carried their tax dispute with the big city into the Ohio Supreme Court said Thursday they were disappointed by the decision both Loveland and Cincinnati can levy an income tax on the same income.

The high court ruled Wednesday that if a person works in one municipality and lives in another, both his home town and the city where he works can tax his income.

Vernon Stiver, city solicitor for this town of 5,000, said the Supreme Court ruling was a disappointment even though it opens the way for Loveland's City Council to pass another tax ordinance. An earlier earnings tax ordinance was repealed in a referendum election.

"This ruling does not actually settle anything," Stiver said. "All it says is that double taxation apparently is legal in this situation. I don't think it goes far enough towards solving the problems raised by Angell Versus Toledo, the case where courts decided a city can tax nonresidents."

"The problem is that even if we pass an ordinance to tax people who work outside Loveland, they can turn right around and repeal it in another referendum election. That's what I told the court when I argued the case before them."

The case grew out of a suit filed by Jack Thompson, a Loveland resident working in Cincinnati who contended he could not be required to pay tax to both cities.

George C. Schiele, Cincinnati income tax director, said the decision would make no difference in the way his office operates. He added that the dispute with Loveland because the suburb's income tax ordinance did not provide for credit on taxes paid to other cities.

"It is quite conceivable that a bill would now be introduced in the legislature prohibiting two cities from taxing the same income, and there would be a question of whether the money would go to the city of residence or to the city of employment," he added.

"It seems to me the odds would favor the city of employment since that was the fundamental promise of city income tax laws."

Officials Confess Misgivings about Future of U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The flags of 114 nations dance with the wind and the sight of them stirs something light and gay in the heart. Behind the ranks of flags, the slender oblong of the secretariat building rises eloquently on the edge of Manhattan's East River, its glass facade catching and bouncing the sunlight. The plaza separating it from the curved exterior of the assembly is open and free in spirit.

It was conceived as an edifice of hope and optimism.

Yet, today, in approaching the 20th year of its existence, the United Nations is beset with gloom.

The road has never been smooth, but now for the first time high officials confess their misgivings about the future of the organization.

U. S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said recently: "It may well be that 20 years ago people expected too much too soon from the United Nations."

When U. N. diplomats gather in San Francisco today to commemorate the signing of the United Nations Charter, the keynote probably will be "hope" and "patience." But the atmosphere will be far different from the optimism which marked the signing of the charter on June 26, 1945.

The United Nations has one big thing in its favor. Its 114 members are virtually unanimous in insisting that it is indispensable.

Indonesia is the only country that has quit the organization in its 20 years. Even during its most difficult days, new countries have continued to seek membership. Apparently there is a universal feeling that the United Nations, with all its shortcomings, is better than nothing.

Hope and good will, however, have not been enough.

There is no doubt but that the organization has plunged deeper and deeper into trouble, and that this nosedive has accelerated in the past year. Secretary-General U. Thant recently noted that new U.N. setbacks — including the channeling of problems away from the organization to regional groups — are causing profound uneasiness.

For the moment, the constitutional problems of the United Nations overshadow the problems which it was created to resolve — the preservation of peace, harmonizing international relationships and improving the lot of humanity.

Somewhere along the line something went wrong with the dream of the generation which emerged from the last terrible war to found the United Nations. What?

For one thing, the word itself changed in ways not anticipated by the architects of the United Nations.

Many of the key provisions of the U.N. Charter were based on the assumption that the big powers, drawn together by war time necessities, would continue to work together despite differing ideologies.

This quickly proved to be a major miscalculation and it was bound to be reflected in the United Nations. Within weeks after the birth of the organization, forewarnings of the cold war had appeared.

The Security Council was all but paralyzed by repeated Soviet vetoes and other U.N. bodies felt the effect of Soviet boycotts. It became axiomatic that "as East-West relations go, so goes the United Nations."

One complicating factor unforeseen by the founding fathers was the U.N. membership explosion. Between 1955 and 1965 the membership soared from 60 to 114. More than half the members now are newly independent countries of Asia and Africa.

This had two important results: it has drawn a sharp focus on Asian and African problems, and it has on many occasions turned the United Nations into a cockpit in the East-West battle for the minds of the new countries.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson acknowledged that the new members have had a profound effect upon the United Nations, and upon world opinion. Their concepts, he said, were far different from those of the countries which formed the

Red-Brick School House Destined To Stay Red

MONTCLAIR, N.J. (AP) — Remember the old red-brick school house?

A group of residents in this North Jersey suburb did last month when the Board of Education began sand-blasting the century-old school administration building, turning it from white to its original red brick front.

The school board intended to repaint the building white, but residents saw red and liked it. The board agreed.

organization in 1945.

"They are far less interested in the East-West division," he said, "than between rich and poor nations, they are less concerned with protocol, than with poverty."

Another problem related to the emergence of the new countries is what Adlai Stevenson calls the "war of liberation" or the "civil war." Stevenson cites Viet Nam and the revolt in the Dominican Republic as examples of how clandestine aggression and subversion of legitimate protest movements can be used under the guise of self-determination. Such wars were not foreseen by the men who drafted the U.N. Charter and there is no international machinery for dealing with them.

"Until the international community is ready to rescue the victims," Stevenson said, "there is no alternative but national power to fill the peace-keeping vacuum."

This "go it alone" tendency is one of the developments which troubles Secretary-General

Thant. Another is the trend toward channeling problems away from the United Nations to regional organizations.

Without questioning the legitimacy of such actions as the handling of the Dominican problem by the Organization of American States, Thant warned:

"If a particular regional organization, under terms of its own constitution, deems it fit to take certain enforcement action in its own region, it naturally follows that other regional organizations should be considered competent, because of the precedent, to take certain enforcement action in its own regions."

In this connection he mentioned the Organization of African Unity, and the Arab League states. He suggested that those who are dedicated to the cause of the United Nations should "do some heart-searching" on this problem.

President Johnson was asked at a recent news conference whether he shared Thant's concern over this problem. "I do not," he said.

As if these problems were not enough, some observers have advanced the theory that some of the organization's difficulties are due to a "20-year syndrome." The reasoning is that it is now 20 years since the end of World War II and that people have forgotten the horrors of war. It is pointed out that the League of Nations failed and a new conflict erupted just 20 years after the end of the first World War.

Late Rallies Win Little Loop Tilts

The Herald Hawks held on to a share of the lead in the Little League Majors edging the American Legion, 13-11, and the BPO Elks rallied for ten runs in the last inning to stop Coca Cola, 10-8.

The Elks were shut out for five innings as Mark Lutz, the Coke hurler, pitched no-hit ball. But the bats of the winning Elkmens began to come alive in the last inning. The first man up in the top of the sixth grounded out. The next batter was Mike Webb, who dropped a Texas League single in short center field for the first hit off Lutz.

The Elks then proceeded to bat around in the inning, with a two run double by Jimmie Stevenson and a double by Millard Scott keeping the rally alive.

WITH SCOTT on base, Mike Webb came to bat for the second time in the inning, and slammed a line drive home run, putting the Elks ahead, 10-8.

Wimbledon Is Staggered As Yankee Humbles Swede

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — A husky young American celebrated his new-found fame today as a Sigmund Freud of the tennis courts — a man who analyzes his victims before disposing of them.

For Chicago-born Allen Fox, playing in his third Wimbledon Championships, life was a thrill. Wimbledon was still staggered by his Thursday upset of Sweden's third-seeded Jan Erik Lundquist. It was also Fox's 26th birthday.

Fox lost in the first round on both his previous Wimbledon appearances — but he is as canny a player as his name implies and he is also a UCLA psychology student. This was his secret weapon as he took Lundquist apart on court.

The Swede, whom everyone said could take the Wimbledon Championship this year, never really got into the game. Fox — having studied his victim closely — played on his weak points and scored an upset rivaling the first Clay-Liston affair in its immediate impact. The set scores were 7-9, 7-5, 6-2, 7-5.

Fox disclaims any ambitions as a psychiatrist but always makes a searching analysis of his opponents "for points which can tell me something on court." He refused to say just what he noticed about Lundquist.

Eighth ranked in the States, Fox must now be reckoned the dark horse of the tournament — even though his run could end in the next round against fellow American Eugene Scott.

PCC Calcutta Slated

Teams for the Pickaway Country Club calcutta slated to start at 2 p.m. Sunday, will be formed tonight following the twilight golf.

Winning pitcher Wertie Teets took care of all three outs in the bottom of the sixth inning.

He struck out the first batter, caught a pop fly behind the pitcher's mound for the second out and fanned the third batter he faced.

Teets relieved Elk starter Rick Prushing in the fourth inning.

For the losers, Lutz cracked two triples and a single.

The Herald Hawks also won their game in the top of the last inning overcoming an 11-10 deficit with a three run rally.

TOM BOWERS paced the winners with two home runs and a triple, Harold Smith cracked two triples and two singles.

For the losers, Danny Zickafosse and Greg Shires doubled.

Randy Sprout was the losing hurler. Tom Wickerham was the starting pitcher, going 4½ innings while Bryan Weaver relieved, finishing the game.

Kathy Whitworth Heads Golf Test

ELLCOTT CITY Md. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth, the likely heir apparent as women's golf queen if Mickey Wright carries out her retirement plans, heads the field in the $10,000 Lady Carling Open which begins today.

Miss Whitworth, the leading money winner on the 1965 tour with $10,997, tuned up for the 54-hole tournament Thursday with a one-under-par 69, on the Turf Valley Country Club course. This enabled her to finish one stroke ahead of Susie Maxwell of Tulsa, Okla., in the pro-am round.

Miss Wright, who has dominated the women's competition in recent years, has indicated she'll quit the tour after this year and return to Southern Methodist University. She is second in earnings with $8,888.

Hebert, Mayer Lead in St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Lionel Hebert and Dick Mayer, a pair of oldsters as professional golfers go, hope the aches and pains of age stay away long enough for them to repulse the assault of younger challengers in the $100,000 St. Paul Open.

Hebert and Mayer went into today's second round tied for the lead after shooting 64s in Thursday's opening round over the par 36-35—71, 6,700-yard Keller golf course in a par-busting day when 81 broke or tied par.

One stroke back were 22-year-old rookie Tom Weiskopf of Columbus, Ohio; Joe Campbell, who is 39, and Tommy Jacobs, who is 29.

A major league batting champion must have 502 or more appearances at the plate.

Cardinals OK Schoendienst, Wallop Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — The World Champion St. Louis Cardinals gave Manager Rod Schoendienst a vote of confidence at a closed meeting, then went out Thursday night and walloped the Cincinnati Reds 11-4.

"We have just been trying too hard for Red, and pressing too much," shortstop Dick Groat said.

"Once we relax and play as we can, we'll come back, he added.

Third baseman Ken Boyer, who was fined by Schoendienst for a careless play recently, said, "I haven't lost confidence in this club. We will be tough when we get straightened out." Phil Gagliano also was fined for poor play.

Gagliano slugged a three-run homer, and Lou Brock and Bob Uecker each rapped two-run singles to pace the Cardinals' 12-hit attack.

Tracy Stallard, with relief help from Don Dennis, got his fourth victory against two defeats. Stallard, who gave up six hits, including homers to John Edwards and Vada Pinson, was lifted in the eighth inning.

Jim O'Toole tried again for Cincinnati, but the southpaw lasted just 3 2-3 innings. He has started 11 games, completed one and won only one. He has now lost six.

Judy Rand Seeks 2nd Golf Crown

ZANESVILLE Ohio (AP) — Judy Rand of Cleveland set out today in quest of her second women's amateur golf championship.

The 22-year-old Cleveland lass opposed Mrs. John Fitton of Hamilton in a 36-hole test over the Zanesville Country Club's 6,240-yard course.

Miss Rand, who won the women's crown in 1961, advanced to the finals by eliminating Miss Pam Higgins of Columbus, 3 and 2, in Thursday's semifinal round.

Mrs. Fitton, 31, reached the final by ousting Miss Bonnie Sue Andrie, 18, of Mount Vernon, 4 and 2.

Mrs. Fitton was 1 down after five holes, evened her match on the seventh and birdies No. 8 for a 1 up lead that she never relinquished.

Late Rallies Win Little Loop Tilts

The Herald Hawks held on to a share of the lead in the Little League Majors edging the American Legion, 13-11, and the BPO Elks rallied for ten runs in the last inning to stop Coca Cola, 10-8.

The Elks were shut out for five innings as Mark Lutz, the Coke hurler, pitched no-hit ball. But the bats of the winning Elksmen began to come alive in the last inning.

The first man up in the top of the sixth grounded out. The next batter was Mike Webb, who dropped a Texas League single in short center field for the first hit off Lutz.

The Elks then proceeded to bat around in the inning, with a two run double by Jimmie Stevenson and a double by Millard Scott keeping the rally alive.

WITH SCOTT on base, Mike Webb came to bat for the second time in the inning, and slammed a line drive home run, putting the Elks ahead, 10-8.

Wimbledon Is Staggered As Yankee Humbles Swede

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — A husky young American celebrated his new-found fame today as a Sigmund Freud of the tennis courts — a man who analyzes his victims before disposing of them.

For Chicago-born Allen Fox, playing in his third Wimbledon Championships, life was a thrill. Wimbledon was still staggered by his Thursday upset of Sweden's third-seeded Jan Erik Lundquist. It was also Fox's 28th birthday.

Fox lost in the first round on both his previous Wimbledon appearances — but he is as canny a player as his name implies and he is also a UCLA psychology student. This was his secret weapon as he took Lundquist apart on court.

The Swede, whom everyone said could take the Wimbledon Championship this year, never really got into the game. Fox — having studied his victim closely — played on his weak points and scored an upset rivaling the first Clay-Liston affair in its immediate impact. The set scores were 7-9, 7-5, 6-2, 7-5.

Fox disclaims any ambitions as a psychiatrist but always makes a searching analysis of his opponents "for points which can tell me something on court." He refused to say just what he noticed about Lundquist.

Eighth ranked in the States, Fox must now be reckoned the dark horse of the tournament — even though his run could end in the next round against fellow American Eugene Scott.

PCC Calcutta Slated
Teams for the Pickaway Country Club calcutta slated to start at 2 p.m. Sunday, will be formed tonight following the twilight golf.

Winning pitcher Wertz Teets took care of all three outs in the bottom of the sixth inning.

He struck out the first batter, caught a pop fly ball behind the pitcher's mound for the second out and fanned the third batter he faced.

Teets relieved Elk starter Rick Prushing in the fourth inning.

For the losers, Lutz cracked two triples and a single.

The Herald Hawks also won their game in the top of the last inning overcoming an 11-10 deficit with a three run rally.

TOM BOWERS paced the winners with two home runs and a triple, Harold Smith cracked two triples and two singles.

For the losers, Danny Zickafoose and Greg Shires doubled.

Randy Sprout was the losing hurler. Tom Wickerham was the starting pitcher, going 4½ innings while Bryan Weaver relieved, finishing the game.

Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell Clobbers Bums

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Say Hey, look what Willie did. Willie Stargell, that is.

The slugging Pittsburgh outfielder, who takes his glasses off to play ball, hammered Los Angeles pitching for three home runs and a double Thursday night, driving in six runs as the Pirates crushed the National League-leading Dodgers 13-3.

Riding a month-long streak that has propelled him into the race for home-run leadership, Stargell brought his total for the season to 20 with his last outburst. Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants leads the majors with 22.

Against the Dodgers, Stargell homered with the bases empty in the first and with one on in the third against 11-game winner Don Drysdale, struck out in the fourth, then connected for his third homer against reliever John Purdin with two on in the sixth.

He came up in the eighth against Mike Kekich and doubled, shooting a line drive down the left-field line that fell two feet short of the stands.

While Stargell was leading a 15-hit attack, St. Louis belted Cincinnati 11-4 with a 12-hit offensive, Philadelphia downed San Francisco 3-1, the Chicago Cubs defeated Milwaukee 3-1 and Houston whipped the New York Mets 4-2.

In the American League, Cleveland clipped Minnesota 3-1, Detroit edged the Los Angeles Angels 3-2, Baltimore beat Boston 4-1 and Kansas City took the New York Yankees 6-2. Washington and Chicago were not scheduled.

Stargell was joined in homer hitting for the Pirates by Bob Bailey and Jim Pagliaro.

Wes Parker drove in all the Dodger runs with a sacrifice fly and a two-run homer off Don Cardwell, who got the victory for a 5-2 record with a four-hitter. Drysdale lost his third straight and now is 11-6.

The Cardinals, gaining only their eighth victory in the last 29 games, did most of the damage against Jim O'Toole, who suffered his sixth loss against only one victory.

Phil Gagliano rapped a three-run homer and Lou Brock and Bob Uecker each stroked two-run singles while Tracy Stallard brought his record to 4-2 with relief help from Don Dennis.

The Giants scored in the second inning on singles by Len Gabrielson, Tom Haller and Hal Lanier but the Phillies moved ahead to stay with a two-run sixth built on a walk and singles by Cookie Rojas, John Callion and Tony Gonzalez.

The victory went to Jim Bunning, who left in the sixth after a single by Matty Alou hit him on the right ankle. Ray Herbert preserved the victory. Bunning's eight against five defeats, Juan Marichal, now 11-6, was the loser.

Dick Ellsworth scattered six Milwaukee hits as he brought his record to 8-3 with his fifth straight victory. He has not lost since May 15 when he pitched a one-hitter and was beaten by the Dodgers.

The Astros put it away against the Mets with a three-run second inning helped along by New York pitcher Jack Fisher.

DICK CAROTHERS

Carrier Has Paper Route For 4 Years

Today's Herald carrier has been passing papers for nearly four years.

He is Dick Carothers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Manley Carothers, 1020 Georgia Road. Dick, who will be a sophomore at Circleville High School this fall, began his route when he was a sixth grader.

The youth is extremely interested in drafting and would like to pursue a career in the field after his high school education is completed. He said he may enroll in an area tech school that offers drafting courses.

Coin collecting is his only hobby. He and his father, who works for the Post Office Department, collaborate in their efforts to secure valuable coins.

Dick and his family are members of the Calvary EUB Church. He is active in the Youth Fellowship of the church during the winter and spring months.

SELNICK IS DEAD—Stricken in the office of his attorney in Beverly Hills, Calif., famed Hollywood movie producer David O. Selznick died an hour later of an acute coronary occlusion at Mt. Sinai Hospital. Selznick made the all-time classic film, "Gone With the Wind."

Cambodian wedding presents are easy. The couple never gets three betel-nut cutters or four anteater skins. The gifts are always money.

First EUB Pastor Transferred to Wellston Parish

The Reverend Orville F. Gibbs, pastor of the First EUB Church, East Main Street, has been transferred to the Wellston First EUB Church. It was announced at the 15th annual session of the Ohio Southeast Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church which convened in Westerville this week, by Bishop Paul M. Herlick D.D., L.L.D.

Reverend Gibbs' replacement will be The Reverend Eugene Flowers now serving the Wellston Church. The new assignments will become effective June 27.

After serving 11 years as pastor of the First EUB Church the records show a long list of improvements in the church, among which are a parking lot and the purchase of a new manse. The records also show great gains in the active church membership.

REV. O. F. GIBBS

Born in Crooksville, some 61 years ago, Rev. Gibbs received his early schooling in that city. He received his call to the ministry, while in the employment of a Crooksville pottery firm where he was a decorator, in 1924. He pursued his course of studies at Otterbein College from that date and later received his seminary work from the former Bonebrake Theological Seminary, Dayton (Now the United Theological Seminary).

REV. GIBBS was ordained Sept. 6, 1936, by the late Bishop A. R. Clippenger some eight years after he received his Lay Preachers License in 1928. A year later he received his Quarterly Conference License and Aug. 30, 1931, in Wellston, his Annual Conference License. Among the circuits and parishes he has served is the Roseville Circuit, which was his first assignment. His second charge was the Vinton County Parish which had six churches on the circuit. During his tenure of office there he added 5 more churches bringing the total to eleven churches. Rev. Gibbs remarked, "On one Sunday I conducted 7 services and preached a Baccalaureate Sermon in the evening, while serving this parish."

From being a "circuit rider" he was assigned to Portsmouth Second EUB Church; then followed Hillsboro and Troy Street EUB Dayton, where he was serving at the time of his ordination. Bremen, Pickaway circuit (Ringgold, Morris, Pontious and Dresbach), Newark CE Memorial, Jackson First and Circleville First round out his pastoral assignments to date.

Rev. Gibbs says he has had 11 rewarding years at Circleville and has mixed emotions on leaving the host of friends in the community after making the decision to move to another work.

Rev. and Mrs. Gibbs, along with Patty and Betty, the remaining two daughters at home, in a family of 13 children, will move to Wellston in the very near future.

Papers Help Training Of Young Delinquents

WHITMORE LAKE, Mich. (AP) — Newspapers and science fiction paperbacks can help juvenile delinquents and youthful "nonachievers" to communicate with the world around them, a University of Michigan educator says.

Dr. Daniel Fader, 35, assistant professor of English, uses such publications at the boys training school near here. "A traditional textbook is a symbol of a boy's failure," Fader said. "Newspapers, magazines and paperbacks are something they can understand. Through these, a natural interest can be aroused."

BOSTON (AP) — USS Constitution—"Old Ironsides" of historic and poetic fame—has made her annual voyage, a turnaround trip at the end of a towline.

The Navy changes the position of the old warship yearly so the run and pressure of prevailing winds won't wear her masts.

This year's turnaround trip was a two-hour jaunt into the harbor Wednesday. Four Navy tugs supplied the power.
